GUAN TIANLANG – YOUNGEST GOLFER TO EVER PLAY IN THE MASTERS – CALLS RON GARL DESIGNED LAKEWOOD GOLF CLUB HIS HOME COURSE

Guan Tianlang the 14-year-old phenom from China, is the youngest to ever play in the Masters and the youngest player at any major in 148 years. He started playing golf at 4 years old.

Guan qualified for the Masters by winning the Asia Pacific Amateur Championship last fall in Thailand.

Guan Tianlang calls Lakewood Golf Club in New Orleans, his “home course” in America. Where he has been honing his short game skills on the Garl designed Practice Facility. Head Pro, Brad Weaver, and Jimmy Headrick, Director of Instruction, have helped made Guan and his parents feel like a part of the family at Lakewood.

Lakewood Golf Club was the host site for the 2012 U.S. Open Qualifier. Guan missed the cut for the U.S. Open but remained at Lakewood for a month to practice his golf game.

Guan allowed Tyler Goynes, master club fitter at Lakewood Golf Club to change his grips and adjust his loft and lie on his clubs. Guan then returned to China and won the Asia Pacific Amateur Championship at Amata Springs Country Club in Chonburi, Thailand.

Guan will return to Lakewood the week after the Masters is finished!
